

Six Easy Steps to Voter Registration

Voter registration is a critical step to engaging new and infrequent voters. Voter registration is easy, legal and can be integrated into daily activities with clients.

Six Easy Steps to Voter Registration

Filling out voter registration cards can seem tricky, and so can remembering what you have to do to make sure that the registrations count. This is a quick guide to the things you have to remember to do to ensure that registrations are accepted.

1. Get the cards:

- The first step is of course getting some voter registration cards. Cards are available at the Secretary of State's office or your local Registrar of Voters.

2. Fill the card out with the person:

- Make sure that they check the boxes verifying that they are a US Citizen and at least 18 years old.
- Make sure that they use their full residential address, not a PO Box.
- ID requirements:
 - Valid Driver's license or ID card
 - Social Security number (preferably all, but AT LEAST the last four digits).

3. Take the card and turn it in for them:

- Explain that they can mail it in, but assure them that you are turning in many people's cards and can make sure that theirs gets to the right place in time.

4. Get their permission to contact them with information about the election and their polling place. You could have a clipboard sign-up for this purpose.

5. Remind the voter TO BRING THEIR ID to the polls.

6. Hand-deliver the cards to the Office of the Secretary of State or your local Registrar of Voters.
