

CENTER FOR COMMUNITY HEALTH INNOVATION

Fostering Community Health Innovation for the Future

Founded with a generous grant from the RCHN Community Health Foundation in 2021, the Center helps prepare Community Health Centers, state and regional Primary Care Associations and Health Center Controlled Networks for future clinical and operational success. Our focus is on the workforce of the future, practice innovation models and collaborative arrangements. This work builds on the Movement's unique 50-plus year history and commitment to equity and access and is aligned with NACHC's six pillars. To learn more about the pillars, visit <https://www.nachc.org/about/about-nachc/>

THE CENTER'S MISSION: To serve as a catalyst for innovation at America's Community Health Centers and to help advance future-focused approaches that increase access to affordable, equitable, quality health care for all.

INNOVATION AT NACHC

Transforming ideas into reality to foster greater Community Health Center impact – on the health and health equity, of the people and communities they serve.

OUR INNOVATION VALUES

LEARN from history and from others

BE CREATIVE to foster intentional, inclusive innovation

COLLABORATE widely and build relationships

ENGAGE those who are most impacted

CONVENE to inspire – and be inspired by others

ADAPT as there is often no “one size fits all” solution

MEASURE progress by evaluating data, insights, stories

EDUCATE and disseminate for broad impact

Innovictionary

The Center has built an innovation dictionary – the Innovictionary, to define innovation tools and concepts with a health center lens and provide curated resources. The health center ecosystem will be invited to submit examples of the terms from their own work. Found here.

Workforce of the Future Challenge

The Center launched the "Workforce of the Future" challenge as a call for best and promising practices focused on engaging youth in future careers as community health center professionals. Finalists were awarded scholarships to an IDEO-U innovation course and the winner won $10,000. The Center will produce case studies to disseminate to all who wish to build their own youth engagement programs. Click here to view the report.

New Solar Power/Resiliency Partnership

NACHC's Development and Innovation and the Public Health Priorities divisions have partnered with Direct Relief on the Power for Health Initiative to help health centers in disaster-prone areas become more resilient and secure energy solutions such as solar power and backup batteries.

Workforce Innovations

DEI and anti-racism programming, a health equity data tracker, a microsite of new recruitment resources, and a higher-education coalition of minority-serving institutions focused on pathways to health center careers are all in development as part of a grant from the Johnson & Johnson Foundation.

Session at CHI 2022

At CHI 2022, CCHI hosted with the Center for Care Innovations a Human Centered Design Workshop. During the session over 90 participants had the opportunity to learn about Human Centered Design approaches that are rooted in understanding people's needs and experiences. Making them an effective approach for community health centers that are committed to advancing fair, just, and inclusive care for all.

Innovations with Mobile Health Units

Six health centers were awarded $10,000 each for care delivery innovations with mobile units. Innovations included substance use and harm reduction services, home visit pilots, new community pediatric partnerships, and a coalition to care for people experiencing homelessness. Funding was awarded from the Leon Lowenstein Family Foundation.

Developing NACHC's Innovation: Workforce, Value-Based Care, Internal Innovation

The Center collaborates with NACHC's internal experts to further develop our focus on workforce, and on value-based care. We host a new internal group to foster and lead innovation, open to all staff, "Innovation@NACHC."

Collaboration with Our Government Partners

NACHC's long-standing partnership with our federal partners extends to our work at the Center. We regularly engage with HRSA's Innovation office, the Bureau of Primary Care's Center for Health Center Innovation and the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Innovation.
