ABOUT COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTERS

At Community Health Centers (CHC), care starts with listening. We take time to get to know our patients – their lives, their needs, and their goals – and we build our care around that.

This approach is about something bigger. As the largest primary care network in the country, CHCs are united by a shared commitment to care that's grounded in relationships. That's why the care people receive here feels familiar and personal. It's care that's shaped by trust, built on connection, and delivered by a national movement rooted in every community we serve.
